

I am strongly opposed to any kind of electronic surveillance on the Internet by the government unless there is suspicion that a crime has or is being committed by the party in question. Law abiding citizens should not be subjected to monitoring by anyone, much less our own government unless there is a reasonable suspicion (that is determined reasonable by a judge) that they are doing something illegal.